EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Introduction

The primary mission of the Nevada Mine Safety and Training Section (MSATS) is to reduce the frequency and severity of mine accidents. Through its enforcement and education efforts, the state experienced zero work related fatalities in mining, an achievement that has not happened since 2019. In addition, the state experienced an 11% reduction in accidents when compared to 2023. Improving and protecting the health of all miners continues to be an important focus area and in 2024, two new regulatory standards were enacted to address adverse trends in mining. In April, the Federal Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) issued a final crystalline silica rule to reduce miner exposures to toxic silica dust and improve respiratory protections against all airborne hazards. However, in 2012, the State of Nevada proactively recognized the dangers posed by silica exposures in mining and adopted the occupational exposure limit set forth by OSHA. This limit is equivalent to the level established in April's final rule from MSHA. Beginning July of 2024, MSHA's Safety Program for Surface Mobile Equipment went into effect. Over the last 10 years, Nevada has experienced seven fatalities involving mobile equipment. With this new standard, MSATS can assist mine operators with establishing mobile equipment programs and procedures that focus on training and education with the goal of reducing this adverse trend.

The improvements enacted to protect miners will have a lasting impact on the workforce in Nevada as mining continues to play a pivotal role in the state's economy. The state continues to be one of the leading mineral producers when it comes to gold and silver. With gold prices reaching all-time highs in 2024, MSATS anticipates more mineral exploration and new projects coming online in the future. In 2024 alone, the Nevada Gold Mines Goldrush project officially came online and is projected to employ over 570 personnel by 2026 when it is fully operational. And while Nevada will always be known for the gold it produces; lithium continues to be a high interest mineral. In 2024, the Biden administration approved the Rhyolite Ridge Lithium-Boron project in Esmeralda County. This is the second lithium project approved in recent years with the Thacker Pass mine located in Humboldt County.

The Mine Safety and Training Section anticipates an active year in 2025 with mine expansions and project startups, as well as many exploration projects. The section is poised to meet demands placed on it whether it is through its educational opportunities or compliance function.

Purpose

The purpose of this annual report is to provide a summary of the section's activities and functions to the Governor and the Mining Oversight and Accountability Commission (MOAC) in accordance with NRS 512.140.

Key Accomplishments

MSATS has two regulatory requirements starting with NRS 512.151, which requires the section to develop and conduct programs for the education and training of operators and workers on recognizing and avoiding accidents, unsafe and unhealthy working conditions.

During calendar year 2024 MSATS provided over 664 hours of training through 45 individual training sessions, an 8% increase when compared to 2023. Staff trained over 1589 students that ranged from current mine employees to those entering the career field for the first time. The staff assisted with the training and development of 70 new instructors from various mine operations and contract companies. These instructors are responsible for the education and training their employees on recognizing hazards and accident prevention.

Another aspect of the section's educational outreach is its consultations and technical assistance. These are typically provided during inspections and provides the section with an opportunity to assist operators and employees with ways to perform jobs in a safe manner while reducing accidents. In 2024, the section provided over 7100 consultations and technical assistance. This was a 51% increase over the previous year.

To support our regulatory requirements found in NRS 512.170, inspection staff members conducted 565 inspections during calendar year 2024, an 8% increase when compared to 2023. Through the course of these inspections, MSATS identified and eliminated over 934 safety and health hazards.

Additional accomplishments included filling the section's Chief Administrative Officer position and the recently established Safety Specialist position in Elko.

Key Issues

As shown above, 2024 was a successful and productive year when compared to 2023. While CY24 was more productive than the previous year, MSATS did experience several key issues. While the section has a 92% retention rate, recruiting and filling positions with qualified applicants continues to be a challenge. In most cases, employees move on from the section primarily due to pay and benefits. According to recent report from the Nevada Governor's Office of Economic Development, the average wage in mining was $129,935 for 2024, whereas the wage for a Safety Specialist with MSATS was $104,713 during the same period. While the section's retention rate is high, it finds itself in a constant state of training new inspection staff members which limits the section's ability to meet its regulatory requirements found in NRS 512.170, which requires each active mine/exploration site to be inspected a minimum of once per year. These shortages continue to impact the section's ability to complete a minimum of one regular inspection per year on each active mine site in the state as outlined in NRS 512.170. For CY24,

MSATS completed one regular inspection at approximately 166 of 249 (65%) active mining operations.
