EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Introduction

The Nevada Mine Safety and Training Section (MSATS) serves as the state's lead authority for safeguarding Nevada's mining workforce through rigorous safety oversight, comprehensive training, and proactive regulatory support. In alignment with its statutory mission, the Section evaluates operator compliance with state and federal requirements and strengthens industry safety performance through targeted education, consultation, and technical assistance. Statewide safety outcomes in 2025 reflect both measurable progress and areas requiring continued focus.

Nevada recorded 149 reportable accidents in calendar year (CY) 2025, an 8% reduction from CY 2024. While this improvement is encouraging, the state experienced two fatal workplace incidents, both involving machinery and powered haulage. These high-risk categories continue to represent a significant portion of all reported accidents despite increased emphasis on prevention.

Nevada remains a national leader in critical mineral development. According to the Nevada Division of Minerals, the state contains 33 of the 50 federally designated critical minerals, including major lithium resources in Clayton Valley and Rhyolite Ridge, with additional production anticipated at Thacker Pass in Humboldt County. These minerals are essential to electric vehicle manufacturing, battery production, renewable energy storage, and defense applications. Nevada also leads the nation in gold production, yielding more than 3.6 million troy ounces in 2024. With gold prices exceeding $4,500 per ounce and sustained demand for critical minerals, Nevada is positioned to remain a top producer. This robust mineral portfolio directly influences the level of activity MSATS must be prepared to support.

Looking ahead, MSATS anticipates a highly active 2026 driven by mine expansions, new project startups, and increased exploration. Although the Section is responsible for oversight across approximately 110,000 square miles, it remains committed to meeting statewide needs through its training programs and compliance functions.

Purpose

This annual report provides a summary of MSATS activities and functions to the Governor and the Mining Oversight and Accountability Commission (MOAC), as required by NRS 512.140.

Key Accomplishments

MSATS operates under two primary mandates. Under NRS 512.151, the Section develops and delivers training programs that help operators and workers recognize and avoid accidents, unsafe practices, and unhealthy working conditions. In 2025, MSATS delivered more than 760 hours of classroom instruction across 53 training sessions—a 15% increase over 2024. A total of 1,598 students received training, including 355 new miners entering Nevada's workforce. The Section also supported the development of 76 new instructors from mine operations and contractor organizations, expanding field-level safety expertise and strengthening statewide outreach.

Beyond classroom instruction, MSATS provides extensive consultation and technical assistance during routine on-site inspections. This collaborative approach—distinct from the federal Mine Safety and Health Administration—enables real-time guidance on safe work practices and hazard prevention. In 2025, MSATS conducted 6,812 consultations and technical assistance interactions, many focused on emerging priorities such as compliance with MSHA's Silica Standard and reducing machinery- and powered-haulage-related incidents.

In accordance with NRS 512.170, MSATS conducts regular safety and health inspections at all active mine sites and exploration projects. In 2025, the Section completed 423 inspections and identified and removed 785 workplace hazards, directly contributing to safer conditions for Nevada's more than 31,000 mining employees. The Section also completed two fatality investigations and ten serious accident investigations; each aimed at identifying root causes and supporting corrective actions. These achievements were realized despite three inspector vacancies for much of the year, underscoring the dedication and professionalism of the MSATS team.

Key Issues

Nevada's continued leadership in mineral exploration and production—driven in part by national priorities identified by the current presidential administration—has significantly increased the demand placed on MSATS. This growth is particularly evident in the expansion of mineral exploration projects, where MSATS remains the sole agency responsible for safety and health oversight across the state.

Recruiting and retaining qualified personnel continues to be a critical challenge. Many newly hired employees leave for private-sector positions that offer more competitive compensation and benefits. These staffing shortages directly affect the Section's ability to meet statutory obligations, including the requirement under NRS 512.170 to conduct at least one regular inspection annually at every active mine site. In calendar year 2025, MSATS completed one regular inspection at approximately 145 of 235 active operations (62%).

Uncertainty surrounding the final status of MSHA's Silica Rule, which is currently under review by the U.S. District Courts. This presents ongoing challenges for both enforcement agencies and industry stakeholders. This regulatory ambiguity complicates compliance planning and increases the need for clear, consistent guidance as the rule's legal standing evolves.
